Please find below and/or attached an Office communication concerning this application or proceeding.

The time period for reply, if any, is set in the attached communication.

Continuation of 3: In the proposed amendment, claims 1 and 22, the weight limitation of the at least one plasticizer is new and requires further search and consideration.

Continuation of 11:

Applicant's arguments with respect to the proposed amendment are not addressed in the present advisory action.

Applicant asserts the present rejection does not address whether the present therapeutic drug will be soluble in the plasticizer, Cremophor RH 40. The argument is unpersuasive. The Cremophor RH40 pamphlet teaches various purposes of using POE castor oil, including nonionic solubilizer for a wide range of hydrophobic substances and as an emulsifying agent to form a stable aqueous alcoholic solution. Examiner views applicant's argument that a skilled artisan would have used POE castor oil with only those disclosed in the pamphlet is subjective. The POE castor oil, according to the reference is a solubilizer for hydrophobic substances; thus it would have been obvious to a skilled artisan that the phenylimidazolidine of the instant claims would be solubilized. Alternatively, using POE castor oil as an emulsifier to stabilize the composition would have also resulted in the present invention.
